

This is the TIGER

that drank the water that stopped the fire that hurt the person that pushed the car that killed the person that ate the animal that hunted for the food that pleased the hungry person that analyzed the results of the test that placed the student that listened the teacher that listened to the student that fooled the teacher that helped to teach the student that doubted the teacher that passed the student that surprised the teacher that struck the pupil that bugged the teacher that questioned the student that sharpened the pencil that marked the piece of paper that flew in the wind that shook the tree that shaded the car that drove over the cat that ate the bird that landed on the tree that shaded the flower bed that rested the person that analyzed the color in the painting that pleased the person that skated across the field of ice that cured the headache that pained the person that relied on the computer that taught lessons to the student that proved the talents to the teacher that helped the student that questioned the teacher that taught the child that questioned the parent that dressed the child that needed the parent that feed the child that taught the adult that helped the child that received the hug from the parent that left the family that moved to the new house that Jack built.

